Development Guide

Berkeley
Designed for life

Where life flows.

Glasswater Locks brings convenience and connectivity to comfortable, modern living, set alongside a peaceful waterway. The development benefits from 155m of canal-side frontage for residents to enjoy tranquil views over the canal from their elevated, private courtyard gardens.

The Canal-Side Club residents' facilities will include a 24-hour concierge, business lounge, games room, gym and cinema room. Planned cafés, bars and restaurants will look to offer alfresco drinks and dinner, while public art, interactive water features and an area for outdoor events ensure there's a carefully landscaped, new neighbourhood that caters for everyone.

Glasswater Locks is a short walk from the best of Birmingham's city centre dining, shopping, cultural attractions and the forthcoming high speed rail station*, which will significantly improve travel times to London and other major UK destinations. Motorway networks and the airport can also be easily reached from the city centre.

*Phase I of HS2 is due for completion 2029-2033

Thriving for business

Paradise Circus, the city's civic centre, is being redeveloped as Paradise, one of the most significant commercial development projects outside of London. It will deliver 1.74 million sq ft of premium office accommodation, including One Chamberlain Square, which is home to international professional services firm PwC.

Global financial institutions are also opening offices here, including HSBC, which has relocated its London headquarters as part of a £200m investment into the Colmore Business District. An increase in affordable and central office space has also attracted many entrepreneurs to the city, enabling Birmingham to produce the highest number of start-ups outside of London for five years running.

Birmingham is one of the UK's fastest growing business hubs with three key areas in the city centre Colmore Row, Paradise and Brindley Place.

Countrywide connections

Birmingham's central location has always maintained strong countrywide connections, where you can access 90% of the UK population within 4 hours.

With the introduction of HS2*, this will elevate the city's transport links to new levels. Curzon Street, which is just an 8-minute walk from Glasswater Locks, will be the fourth mainline station in the city following Moor Street, New Street and Snow Hill.

For those travelling by road, major motorways, including the M5, M6 and M42, are easily reached from the city centre. Furthermore, Birmingham coach station is a national hub that has undergone major refurbishment in recent years.

As for travelling further afield, Birmingham Airport is undergoing a £500 million investment that will further enhance the existing site, which already hosts around fifty airlines that fly to more than 150 destinations.

LEEDS

The development

The historic industrial area provides context for the architecture of Glasswater Locks and its proximity to the canal has informed the layout of its seven buildings. The site has been designed to flood the spaces with natural light and to create canal-side views and public spaces, bringing life back to the canal and creating a vibrant place where people want to live, can enjoy life and where communities can thrive. Apartments and duplexes offer both comfort and style. Contemporary interior design uses contrasting colours to create impact and a sense of spaciousness.

A mix of white woodwork, neutral tones and matte black fixtures and fittings are complemented by floor-to-ceiling windows that flood the rooms with natural daylight.

Dynamic city of culture

Birmingham is considered a young and vibrant cultural epicentre with a majority percentage of residents below the age of 25. Birmingham's evolution is rooted in rich industrial heritage yet is infused with the diversity of its modern population. The city is proud to have five globally recognised universities and welcomed 5 million people to the city during the 2022 Commonwealth Games.

Birmingham's cultural calendar is always packed with world-class art, drama, dance, music, festivals and exhibitions – not surprisingly, as the city boasts six major theatres and nearly 100 art venues, galleries and museums. High speed rail links also make Birmingham one of the UK's top shopping and dining destinations. The Victorian-era Piccadilly Arcade and Selfridges' landmark building are as popular as the five Michelin-starred restaurants located in the city centre.

BIRMINGHAM IS A MEMBER OF BIOPHILIC CITIES, A GLOBAL NETWORK OF CITIES WHICH ARE DEDICATED TO IMPROVING THE CONNECTION BETWEEN RESIDENTS AND URBAN NATURE.

Birmingham enjoys over 8,000 acres of green space and 571 parks – 15 of which have been awarded Green Flag status, an international accolade for good management and public accessibility.

Around 25% of the dynamic city is green space, making it the UK's fourth greenest city. Birmingham also boasts 53 miles of canals – even more than Venice.
