The Oval cricket ground c.1855

Founded in 1845 on land leased from the Duchy of Cornwall, the Kia Oval is home to the Surrey County Cricket Club. The Duke of Cornwall remains as the ground's Landlord and in 1915, he granted the Surrey Cricket Club the right to use the Prince of Wales feathers as part of their badge.

Home to some significant sporting firsts, the Kia Oval was the first ground to host International Test cricket and the first England international football match. Since 1853 games have been played with the iconic Oval Gasholders as a backdrop. The transformation of the main Gasholder into a new residential building, ensures that this iconic structure continues as part of the Kia Oval story.
